Art Unit: 1771

1. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification as originally filed does not provide support for the limitation that both the warp and weft comprise straight yarns.

2. Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Townley et al, U.S. Patent No. 5,657,797.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Townley et al, U.S. Patent No. 5,657,797 in view of Sakuma, U.S. Patent No. 6,214,752. Townley discloses a paper making felt comprising a base fabric having a fibrous batt needled on to it. The base fabric may comprise a woven fabric. The fabric may further comprise stuffer yarns which stabilize the woven fabric. The stuffer yarns correspond to the claimed straight yarns. The stuffer yarns are evenly distributed. Townley et al differs from the claimed invention because Townley does not disclose that the straight yarns comprise at least 40% of the number of yarns in the warp and weft of the woven fabric. However, Townley does teach that the stuffer yarns serve to stabilize the fabric. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have optimized the number of stuffer yarns through the process of routine experimentation in order to produce a felt having the desired stability.

5. Townley also differs from the claimed invention because Townley does not disclose employing the straight yarns in both the warp and the weft. Sakuma teaches that employing the straight yarns in both the warp and the weft enhances the dimensional stability and abrasion resistance of the fabric. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have employed straight yarns in both the warp and the weft. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ straight yarns in both the warp and weft by the teaching of Sakuma that this would enhance the dimensional stability and abrasion resistance of the woven fabric. See col. 1, lines 46- col. 2, line 24.

6. Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
